

Maggie Reynolds-Andrews was born in Adams Co, IN, July 15, 1862, and died in Monroe, IN, July 4 1893, aged 30 years, 11 months and 19 days. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds, of Decatur, and in her happy home grew up to womanhood, known and loved by a large circle of young friends. Happily married to Dr. O. P. M. Andrews, November 8, 1884, the young physician and wife took up their residence in Monroe, where they have since lived. Two children were born to them: Harry C, aged 8, and Frances aged 7 years. But the joys of the family circle were interrupted by the hand of disease which was fastened upon the wife and mother. She made a noble struggle for life, and for a time the strong mind prevailed over the emaciated and wasting body, but on July 4th, while surrounded by loving friends and relatives she passed away. While the nation was rejoicing in civil freedom, she passed into that state of spiritual rest and freedom where the powers of the soul are untrammelled by the weakness and pain of the physical nature.

On the Sunday prior to her death, she said to her mother: "weep not for me, it is all right with me; I am willing to die, I am not afraid to go; I am prepared to go." The funeral services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. E. T. Gregg, of Decatur, at the M. E. Church, in Monroe; and a large concourse of friends followed the remains to their last resting place, the Reynolds cemetery, 3 miles north-west of Decatur, where she was laid to await the resurrection morning.

The family and friends have the sincere sympathy of all the community in their bereavement. W. B. Freeland

[NOTE: Maggie Andrews 15 Apr 1862 - 4 Jul 1893; 30y 11m 19d, Wife of Oliver Perry Morton Andrews - Dau. of William Reynolds - died of tuberculosis].