SAVE THE DATE: IGS 2022 Conference

IGS Conference 2022:

Thank you for attending our 2021 conference. As you know, the conference was generously sponsored by both Visit Fort Wayne, and by Vivid-Pix. I hope that you will support Visit Fort Wayne by attending our 2022 conference at the Allen County Public Library on April 2, 2022. Our main speaker will be David Lambert with the New England Historic Genealogical Society. David is an expert on New England research, and his topics for this conference will be Great Migration Immigrants to New England 1620-40, Using New England Probate Records, Discovering Land Records in New England, and Using New England Court Records in Your Family History.

Friday speakers and the possibility of virtual accessibility will be announced later, so be sure to keep checking social media and the enews for more information as it becomes available.

Ancestry Introduces New U.S. FREEDMEN'S BUREAU RECORDS, a Breakthrough for Black Family History

We've touched on the difficulties of tracing African American ancestry through history before in this newsletter, but I'm happy to report that the search is getting easier every day as dedicated researchers pave the way forward with new resources for those of us still wading through the muck.

This light in the darkness comes courtesy of Ancestry.com. Ancestry has introduced a new collection of more than 3.5 million searchable records known as The Freedmen's Bureau Collection. What is the Freedmen's Bureau? Established in 1865 to help the nearly four million newly freedmen and women manage their transition from enslavement to citizenship, the Freedmen's Bureau assisted with land and property, relief programs, medical care, and educational support, and that's just the tip of the iceberg. The Freedmen's Bureau collection can provide details of your African American ancestors' lives before 1870—giving you a more complete picture of your past. With this free collection, you can discover the names of your African American ancestors, read their personal letters, see where they settled after the Civil War, and much more.

Women's History and Female Ancestors Resources

Is researching your female ancestors one of your genealogy goals? If so, I'm sure the difficulties of tracing women through the annals of history has become more than apparent along the way. Thankfully, the wonderful, industrious researchers over at FamilyTreeMagazine.com have done some of the heavy lifting for you. They've compiled a diverse and comprehensive assortment of resources ranging from websites to reference books that can help ease the strain of hunting for information on women in a time when much of the female experience went unrecorded. If you've ever struggled to uncover a name, find a pertinent date, or just get started in the search, this is one bevy of resources you won't want to pass over.

To view these resources and get started searching for your female ancestors, refer here.

Over One Million Pages of Historical British Newspapers Free Online

158 historical newspapers spanning 1720 to 1880 now free to search and explore on both Findmypast.co.uk and britishnewspaperarchive.co.uk. Digitized and published online as part of four special British Library projects, many of the titles included have been specifically chosen to help researchers shed new light on diverse and previously underrepresented communities and their histories. Readers can discover contemporary reports on the struggles of the poor and working class, the daily lives of England's mining communities, the evils of slavery, the campaign to end them, and much more.

According to Findmypast, there are "158 free titles on offer, dating from 1720 to 1880 and covering a diverse array of histories, locations and topics. The newspapers selected were digitized as part of four special British Library projects, including;

- 19th Century Newspapers: a project funded by the Joint Information Systems Committee and the British Library's first major newspaper digitization program
- Heritage Made Digital newspapers: an ongoing project to transform digital access to rare and early newspapers, focusing on newspapers in a poor or unfit condition
- Living with Machines: another ongoing project, jointly led by the Library and the Alan Turing Institute, which has been digitizing selected UK regional newspapers as part of a major study of the British industrial age and using artificial intelligence tools to undertake new kinds of historical inquiry.
- The Endangered Archives Programme: a project that facilitates the digitization of archives around the world that are in danger of destruction, neglect or physical deterioration
- The Barbadian (1822-1861) – a fascinating Caribbean publication that covers the transition of Barbados from the colonial, pre-modern to the modern era, including the Emancipation (1834), and the end of the apprenticeship system (1838)
- The British Emancipator (1837-1840) – an anti-slavery newspaper which fought for the abolition of the system of apprenticeship, which was put into place after slavery was abolished in the British Colonies
- British Miner and General Newsman (1862-1867) – a journal devoted to working miners, which went through a number of titles including The Miner, The Workman's Advocate and The Commonwealth
- Cobbett's Weekly Political Register (1803-1836) – a famous and hugely information rich vehicle for the ideas and opinions of the great nineteenth-century radical William Cobbett

- The Examiner (1808-1880) – a leading radical weekly, edited by Leigh Hunt, with contributors including William Hazlitt, John Keats and Percy Shelley
- Illustrated Sporting and Theatrical News (1862-1870) – a lively, visually rich newspaper covering a wide range of sports and theatrical events, with many fine illustrations
- The Jamaica Mercury and Kingston Weekly Advertiser (1779-1840) – a West Indies newspaper notorious for its slavery advertisements, later known as The Royal Gazette of Jamaica
- The Lady's Newspaper and Pictorial Times (1847-1863) - one of the earliest newspapers produced for an exclusively female audience
- The Morning Herald (1800-1869) – founded on 1780, a national daily that for a number of years rivaled The Times in importance
- The Poor Man's Guardian (1831-1835) - the most successful and influential of the radical unstamped (and thus illegal) newspapers of the early 1830s
- The Sun (1801-1871) – a daily evening national newspaper, founded in 1792, originally with pro-government and anti-French revolutionary stance, before changing to advocate liberal and free trade principles"

Prior to this amazing digitization effort, these and many other British newspaper records were accessible only in person, necessitating costly travel and hands-on sorting to find needed material. Now, anyone around the world can access these amazing records here.

New Free Historical Records on FamilySearch

FamilySearch has added over 10 million new records this week from Ireland Prison Registers 1798–1928 and Ireland Merchant Navy Crew Lists 1857–1922. In addition, newly expanded Catholic Church records for Mexico are now freely available as well as a bevy of new US records have been added including Indiana marriage records from 1811-2019.

From the Northeast Indiana Jewish Genealogy Society

We hold quarterly, public programs to discuss and promote Jewish genealogy, as well as several more intimate events just for our members. Our purpose is to present educational programs relevant to Jewish genealogy, to support our members in their pursuit of their family histories, to collaborate with other organizations on areas of Jewish genealogical interests, and to protect, preserve and share Jewish genealogical records from the region of Northeast Indiana. Visit <https://neindianaigs.org/> for more information.

>> Grant County (submitted by Rhonda Stoffer, Grant Co. ICG:)

The Marion Public Library has a genealogy database of over 900,000 entries that index birth, death, and marriage records, obituaries, cemetery listings, orphan's home, funeral homes, and some court records. The Indiana Room is taking appointments for use of microfilm and other resources, emphasizing social distancing.

The Marion Public Library Virtual Genealogy Club meets on the 2nd and 4th Thursdays of the month at 6:30 PM via Zoom. Everyone is welcome to attend. You can contact the Indiana Room at mplih@marion.lib.in.us for more information.

>> Huntington County

The Huntington County Genealogy Society meets at 6:30 PM on the first Wednesday of most months in the Indiana Room at the Huntington City-Township Public Library, 255 West Park Drive, Huntington. The public is invited, and new members are always welcome. For more information, contact the Indiana Room at 260-356-0824. Visit the library website at <http://www.huntingtonpub.lib.in.us/calendar/> to learn more.

Any adult interested in genealogy or local history is invited to our monthly club. Meeting in the Joan B. Keefer Genealogy and Local History Center, each session brings together hobbyists and professionals for discussion, learning, and research.

- September: Carole Hacker will share "Family History and Family Stories"
- October: Jeannine Regan-Dinius will speak on cemetery rules and regulations.

>> Noble County

We meet the 3rd Monday night of March, May, July, September, and November at 6:30 PM usually at the Noble County Public Library. Our Genealogy Room is located in the Noble County Public Library on East Main in Albion, IN. We maintain a wonderful collection of books, manuscripts, various indexes, census information, etc. in the Indiana Genealogy Room. Visit <http://sites.rootsweb.com/~innccgs/> to learn more.

>> Elkhart County (submitted by Patricia Johnson:)

The Elkhart County Genealogical Society has suspended its meetings for the time being. Details on when meetings will resume and upcoming programs will be available on the society's webpage: www.elkhartcogensoc.org.

>> Howard County (submitted by Cindy Stover, Howard Co. ICG:)

The Howard County Society isn't meeting yet. The Library is open regular hours, but masks are required. No other new information. Normally, the Howard County Genealogical Society meets the 2nd Monday of the month at 6:00 PM at the Library, 220 N. Union St., Kokomo, Indiana 46901. Visit the Kokomo-Howard County Public Library website to learn more at <http://www.KHCPL.org>.

>> La Porte County (submitted by Harold Henderson, La Porte Co. ICG:)

The La Porte County Genealogical Society (LPCGS) has resumed meetings. Visit the society website at <http://sites.rootsweb.com/~inlcigs/> to confirm the event is continuing as scheduled. On May 11, the La Porte County Genealogical Society met in the library meeting room, which is large enough to accommodate everyone with social distancing and masks for all (except the speaker!).

Susan Webster gave a detailed and well illustrated account of the life of Naomi Anderson (1843-1899), an African-American woman who was born in Michigan City, Indiana. She was a vigorous advocate for suffrage, temperance, civil rights, advocating equal rights for all genders and races in the 1870s.

As county genealogist I responded to an email from a researcher hoping to visit and research in La Porte, St. Joseph, and Porter counties, and listed likely places to visit and potential research helpers. It's easy for us locals to forget all the odd places where materials can wind up: in St. Joseph, the county archives are important, and in Porter the library holds many actual old record books deaccessioned from the courthouse, while in La Porte researchers can benefit from the work of the late lamented Fern Eddy Schultz at the county historical society.

>> Henry County (submitted by Kaye Ford, East Central District Director)

The Indiana Room at the New Castle-Henry County Public Library is open for research. You may also contact the Indiana Room genealogist, Kathie Ward, at kathie@nchcpl.org or 765-529-0362, ext. 1368. Kathie is at the Indiana Room on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays, between 9am and 5pm.

The Clarence H. Smith Genealogy Library is open by appointment only at the Henry County Historical Society. Please contact Henry County Genealogist, Kaye Ford, at henrycountymuseum@gmail.com or 765-529-4028 to schedule an appointment or request research. Research is $15 per surname, payable by cash, check, or PayPal (at HenryCountyMuseum.org by clicking the 'donate' button).

Recently, Keith Buckley, co-author of Indiana Stonecarver: The Story of Thomas R. Reding, spoke at the historical society's 134th annual meeting. This is a truly wonderful genealogical tale and demonstrates how records continually pop up to help a story grow. Mr. Buckley will be returning to the historical society in the fall to present about Civil War pension widows.

The historical society also welcomed Susan Idlet, the 2nd-great-granddaughter of Thaddeus Coffin who was the architect of the General William Grose home, which houses Henry County's museum, and the creator of a one-of-a-kind desk. One fascinating aspect of this desk is Coffin included his paternal lineage on the front of a drawer...in Morse code! We love to have descendants visit us.

>> Wayne County (submitted by Kaye Ford, East Central District Director)

Wayne County Genealogical Society: Meetings are held the second Saturday of each month (except December and January), at 10:00 AM in the lower level of the First Friends Church at 2010 Chester Blvd, Richmond, Indiana. Gould Street, Nashville, IN 47448.

>> Crawford County (submitted by Anne Hager, Crawford Co. ICG:)

There's not much going on in Crawford County right now. Here's the following from the Crawford County Historical & Genealogical Society:

In addition, the Crawford County Public Library's genealogy department is still open to patrons. The current hours for the library are: Tuesday-Wed-Thurs: 10-5:30, Friday: 10-4, Saturday 10-2.

>> Dearborn County (submitted by Cassie Blankenhorn, Dearborn Co. ICG:)

Lawrenceburg Main Public Library has reopened. The North Dearborn Branch is open with hours Monday and Wednesday (Noon to 7 PM), Tuesday and Thursday (10 AM to 5 PM), and Saturday (10 AM to 2 PM).

We request patron's wear a mask but are not requiring it. We do have new ones available to borrow while you're here, if needed. There will be a time limit of 30 minutes, hopefully enough time to find materials and check out. If you need to use a computer, that must be done by appointment only by calling our main number at 812-537-2775. Please check our website at <https://www.lpld.lib.in.us/locations-hours> or Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/LawrenceburgPublicLibraryDistrict> for updates.

>> Floyd County (submitted by Susan Covey, FOGS Media Chair:)

The Falls of the Ohio Genealogical Society (FOGS) is a newly formed 501(c)3 dedicated to collecting, preserving, and making available genealogy material especially for Floyd, Clark, and Harrison Counties in southern Indiana. FOGS hosts a program of genealogy or history the first Thursday of each month, currently via Zoom. Please visit fallsgenealogy.org for information about upcoming presentations and the First Families of Floyd, Clark and Harrison Counties Legacy Project.

>> Harrison County (submitted by Lynne Keasling, Harrison Co. ICG:)

Just finished "Exciting Times in Old Harrison County 1906-1910." Interesting and quirky news items from the Corydon Democrat and the Corydon Republican PLUS interesting Statewide Stats trivia. Buggy accidents, robberies, Gypsies, Tramps and Thieves, snakes in the house, people lost and found, the speed limit for automobiles in Corydon in 1906 was 6 MPH and all sorts of interesting items. Fun reading and almost like peeking back into the windows of life in the early 1900's. Selling for $22.00 each. Spiral bound, All name Indexed. Contact me for a copy.

RESEARCH CLUE: I am working on a new database of Harrison County Divorces-ca 1900-1910 for another book and in the early 1900's the State Vitals reported that there was one divorce for every 8 marriages in the STATE ! SO--if you suddenly "lose" someone, consider that they may have divorced and have left the State or are living with someone else but still might report themselves as "married" . I am astonished at the number of divorces being requested. That book is still in embryo stage but most interesting to work on!

>> Lawrence County

from the Lawrence Co. Historical & Genealogical Society website:

We love all our visitors at the Lawrence County Museum! During this very unusual time in our country's history, we find ourselves without a regular Friday volunteer on the front desk, so if you would like to come in to tour the gallery or use the library on a Friday, please call a staff member at 812-278-8575, and we will happily come down to let you in.

The Lawrence Historical and Genealogical Society meeting is normally held the second Monday of each month in the Meeting Room, Lawrence County Museum of History, 929 15th Street, Bedford, Indiana 47421. Sadly, due to COVID these are on hold. Their website is <http://www.lawrencecountyhistory.org>

>> Monroe County (submitted by Penny Mathiesen, South Central District:)

The Monroe County History Center, located at 202 East Sixth Street, Bloomington, IN 47401, is at present open to the public only by appointment. The Research Library is accepting questions and requests by email (library@monroehistory.org) or telephone (812-332-2517). Please call or check our website at www.monroehistory.org for changes in services due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Research Library is still accepting inquiries and applications to our First Family Program, eligible to anyone who is a direct descendant of a Monroe County resident who settled here before 31 December 1849.

All Monroe County Court records (1818 through 1960) held in the Research Library have been indexed, and the up-to-date index is available online at: www.monroehistory.org under Library—Indexes and Resources. Updated Divorce and Probate indexes for the same time period are also available there.

>> Greene County (submitted by Diane Anderson, Greene Co. ICG:)

I am excited to tell you that on October 6th, my library's genealogy volunteer and myself went live with a Facebook genealogy group. It is called "Greene County Genealogy \(Indiana\)" and has already gained 42 new members since then. The aim of the group is to help point members in the right direction, provide helpful information and build community by encouraging members to network & help each other. You must join the group (answer some questions) to see the details in the Facebook group.

>> Knox County (submitted by Brian Spangle, Knox Co. ICG:)
