SAVE THE DATE: IGS 2022 Conference - Now Virtual!

IGS Conference 2022:

The next IGS Conference will be held April 1-2, 2022 and will be virtual and free thanks to our sponsor VividPix. Our main speaker will be David Lambert, New England Historic Genealogical Society (NEHGS). David Lambert has been on the staff of American Ancestors and NEHGS since 1993. David is an internationally recognized speaker on the topics of genealogy and history. His genealogical expertise includes New England and Atlantic Canadian records of the 17th through 21st century; military records; DNA research; and Native American and African American genealogical research in New England. Lambert has published many articles in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, the New Hampshire Genealogical Record, Rhode Island Roots, The Mayflower Descendant, and American Ancestors Magazine. He has also published A Guide to Massachusetts Cemeteries (NEHGS, 2009). David is an elected Fellow of the Massachusetts Historical Society in Boston, Mass., and a life member of the New Hampshire Society of the Cincinnati.

His four talks will focus on New England research:

1. Great Migration Immigrants to New England 1620-40 – This lecture is intended to explore the primary and published resources for Great Migration immigrants to New England 1620-40. David will discuss the existing primary source and immigration records both in England as well as New England. This lecture is focused on Mayflower passengers through later settlers into Plymouth Colony, Massachusetts Bay Colony, and settlement in other New England states in the 17th century.
2. Using New England Probate Records – Probate records can be a powerful resources for genealogists and researchers. These papers document legal decisions that explain how an individual's estate is distributed to heirs, dependents, and creditors. Probate records often reveal details of an ancestor's personal life. In this lecture, learn how to get the most out of probate records with a special emphasis on New England resources both on and offline.

3. Discovering Land Records in New England – Land records can often trace generations of ownership of a single parcel of land and help genealogists determine years of family connections. Learn about existing land records and how to access them across New England for your own family history research.

4. Using New England Court Records in Your Family History – Court records are often overlooked in genealogical research, however this record group can help you fill in the sometimes more colorful details of an ancestor's life, put your ancestor at a certain place at a certain time, or provide information about family connections and relations not found in other records. In this lecture you will learn all about court records in New England – what records exist, what they can tell you about your ancestor, and how to best access them either online or in person.

On Friday, April 1, 2022, there will be three talks scheduled from other experts. Sarah Kirby will do a session on archives; Ron Darrah will do a session on Indiana territorial records; and Allison DePrey Singleton will be doing a session on the 1950 census. A fourth session is currently being determined, and a full schedule is on the way. Be sure to keep checking social media and the enews for more information as it becomes available.

Registration for the conference opens February 15th. Mark your calendars!

How to Care for Vintage Christmas Ornaments

Christmas may be over but that just means it's time to take down those trees and pack away the ornaments for another year of storage. The holiday season is definitely a time of remembering those who have passed, and it's incredibly important to make sure that the items we keep to remember them by stand the passage of time. If you guys are anything like me and my family at large, you'll have several ornaments that are older than you are in need of proper storage. Luckily, the great folks at Familytreemagazine.com have written up a nifty guide to making sure your great-grandmother's Santa Claus tree topper lasts a few more generations yet!

There are many important things to note when it comes to object handling and artifact storage--and isn't that a little wild? Some of your ornaments would qualify as artifacts in a museum setting! The number one rule is to always handle and display them with care, but a lesser known one is to take just as much care in picking your storage materials as you when handling the item itself! It's number three on the list, but it may be the most important for the long-term preservation of your heirlooms.

"Archival, acid-free tissue paper is one of the most useful supplies in an archivist's toolkit. Although it looks like regular tissue paper, archival tissue is manufactured to remove damaging contaminants. Regular tissue paper becomes acidic, discolored and brittle over time—damage that extends to adjacent objects through acid migration."

There are plenty of places where you can purchase archival-safe storage material. Just make sure you look for the note on the package stating that it's acid-free, and take care when you wrap your ornaments. It's easy to snag a sharp edge or bend thin metal.

It's little things like properly padding the space beneath the tree and knowing when to clean an ornament yourself and when to outsource the work to a professional that will keep your precious ornaments around a few generations longer. You can learn all the details on how to safely preserve your ornaments for future family Christmas's here. It's worth a read, especially as you begin to take down that tree!

FamilySearch 2021 Genealogy Highlights/Year-in-Review

The first month of the new year is behind us, but that doesn't mean we should just leave 2021 behind without at least one backwards glance at all that's happened in the world of family history research. The great folks over at Eastman's have compiled a really cool FamilySearch's 2021 in Review breakdown of all the awesome things that transpired, became available, and emerged as new resources for family historians and institutions alike.

In their own words, they discuss how 2021 saw FamilySearch complete the digitization of its massive microfilm collection—2.4 million rolls to be exact—and welcome over 1 million people to its first all-virtual RootsTech Connect online event."

Highlights at a glance include:

- Crowdsourcing contributors worldwide added information about millions of deceased relatives to the FamilySearch Family Tree in 2021, making a total of 1.38 billion people now searchable in the world's largest collaborative—and free—family tree!
- the completion of the monumental task of digitizing its 2.4 million rolls of microfilm. The initiative makes billions of ancestors from over 200 countries and principalities more readily discoverable online. FamilySearch's Explore Historical Images feature enables users to effectively peruse digitized images from most of the microfilm collection online and more with a free FamilySearch account.
- 2021 enhancements that visitors can now enjoy include new discovery pages for ancestors in the family tree. These pages are an easy way to see your relative's life story at a glance, view photos and stories, and understand the historical events they may have lived through.
- The all-virtual RootsTech Connect 2021 attracted more than 1 million participants from 242 countries and territories!

We all hope 2022 is just as successful and momentous as 2021, but until we reach those milestones, check out the full list of noteworthy accomplishments from last year! Who knows, maybe you'll discover something new in the process! Check it out here.

Information About 1950 U.S. Census Indexing Efforts

As some of you very well know, the 1950 census records are nearing their release date! A great blog post on the LDS365 website goes into detail describing this process:

"Upon its release, the 1950 U.S. Census Community Project, a joint initiative between FamilySearch, Ancestry, and other leading genealogy societies and organizations, will coordinate efforts to provide quick access to these digital images and to create a comprehensive index that will be searchable online."

It goes on to describe the process as follows:

"Supported by genealogy giants Ancestry and FamilySearch, along with local and national genealogy and historical organizations, this project will rally hundreds of thousands of volunteers to publish a high-quality, searchable online index of every name in the census.

"Rather than starting from scratch, volunteers will review Ancestry's computer-generated index using groundbreaking handwriting recognition and cutting-edge artificial intelligence technologies. This human review will verify that the data is accurate and complete. Volunteers can visit FamilySearch.org/1950census to review their own family's information and then review other records to refine the index before publication."

It sounds like a really good source of information and is definitely worth keeping an eye on. As I understand it, the release date is scheduled to happen April 2, 2022. You can read more about the process and what to expect here!

Attention: Volunteers Needed!

We here at the IGS have received word that Janet Frey, FamilySearch.org Field Support for several states including Indiana, needs your help to complete an important digitization project! She is in dire need of document preparation help in Sullivan, Boone, Miami, Switzerland and a few other areas working with various records at county courthouses. IGS and FamilySearch.org have partnered to digitize marriage and other courthouse records throughout the state of Indiana.

FamilySearch.org is providing the technology and technicians to do the actual scanning of the records using contractors and missionaries. Volunteers are needed locally to prepare the documents for scanning. Included in this project are scanning of Probate Packets - the paper documents that are created in settling an estate. These documents are a treasure trove of local history - receipts from long gone businesses, lists of items owned by the deceased, beneficiaries of the estate, and even neighbors who purchased items from the estate sale. For over 100 years, these important documents have been folded and placed in a packet envelope. In order to scan fragile documents, they must be unfolded, flattened, and placed in a folder. After scanning, they may, depending on the decisions of the local county clerk, need to be refolded and replaced in the estate packet envelope. In order to keep the project moving volunteers are need to prepare these documents and keep ahead of the contractors doing the scanning. If the contractors can not keep scanning, they will be moved from that county and the project will stall.

From Rhonda Stoffer, IGS President, Grant County Genealogist:

"I have personally been working on the Grant county digitization project for FamilySearch since October of 2021. There are 7 of us who are unfolding Probate Packets for scanning. I can honestly say that none of us have found the experience boring. We have completed 900 packets and have found some amazing gems in the documents. As the head of the Indiana Room at Marion Public Library, my staff and I are always looking for information on previously unknown people from the area. Using a line from a woman's estate paper that said she was due a payment from her husband's military pension, we were able to determine that her husband was a Black War of 1812 veteran that was previously unknown to us, and is buried in the county. In another file, a local man had died during the Civil War in Andersonville Prison Camp. Years after the war, several men who had been in the camp with him traveled to Grant county to tell the court what his final wishes were for his estate.

Without this project these events would remain lost to history. Please consider helping with this worthwhile project. The goal is to complete each of the 92 counties in Indiana. Currently, about 18 counties have committed to the project which has no cost to the county for the digitization. Please contact your local county clerk to encourage them to take advantage of this wonderful project that will preserve these important records for years to come. After scanning, all of these records will be available for everyone on FamilySearch.org, for free!"

Doesn't that sound pretty cool? The group managing the project will be asked to pack up the cameras and return them if new help isn't found soon. Volunteers won't be digitizing the material but prepping documents for digitization by carefully unfolding them, putting them in folders, and returning them to storage once they've been successfully digitized. The work needs to be performed in a timely manner and the documents themselves need to be handled delicately, so if you've got some time and have a gentle touch, this could be a great opportunity to help out your local courthouse!

If you or anyone you know are interested in a really hands on experience with the oldest records in your state please contact Janet Frey at 615-992-5829 or freyjl@familysearch.org.

COUNTY ROUNDUP OF EVENTS

Northeast

>> Allen County submitted my Margery Graham, Allen Co. ICG:

The Society holds regular monthly programs on the second Wednesday of each month (except July and August), at 7:00 PM. To expand our audience and bring the amazing resources of the Society to a wider audience, our 2021-2022 season of programs will continue as virtual programs on the Zoom platform. Registration for the virtual programs will be on the ACGSI website. For more information and current program offerings, please see www.acgsi.org, our blog at acgsi.wordpress.com, or visit us on Facebook, Instagram, Pinterest or Twitter. ACGSI members will be emailed an invitation to each Free Educational Program. Membership in the Society is open to all. Any changes to the meeting platform will be announced on our social media sites. All times listed below are Eastern Time.

- February 9, 2022 at 7:00 PM online. Gail Blankenau will present "Finding Your German Ancestral Village."
- March 9, 2022 at 7:00 PM online. Glen York will present "Get More Out of Your DNA Matches with Autoclusters."
- April 13, 2022 at 7:00 PM online. Amy Johnson Crow will present "Using Land Records Effectively."

From the Genealogy Center

To learn more or register for the programs, visit <https://genealogycenter.org>, call 260-421-1225, or email

Recorded Genealogy Center programs can be found on the Genealogy Center section of the Library's YouTube channel.

From the Northeast Indiana Jewish Genealogy Society

We hold quarterly, public programs to discuss and promote Jewish genealogy, as well as several more intimate events just for our members. Our purpose is to present educational programs relevant to Jewish genealogy, to support our members in their pursuit of their family histories, to collaborate with other organizations on areas of Jewish genealogical interests, and to protect, preserve and share Jewish genealogical records from the region of Northeast Indiana. Visit <https://neindianajgs.org/> for more information.

- February 13, 2022 at 2:00 PM – Warren Blatt, “Jewish Names.” Warren Blatt will present two programs, “Jewish Given Names” and “Jewish Surnames.” The first will focus on the history and patterns of Jewish first names and how to recognize names in genealogical sources. The surname presentation will discuss the types and origins of surnames, how they developed and how they transformed with immigration. Warren Blatt is the former Managing Director of JewishGen and the co-author of Getting Started in Jewish Genealogy (Avotaynu, 1999).
- April 3, 2022 at 2:00 PM – Ed Mitukiewicz, “Location, Location, Location: How Genealogical Research Can Benefit from Historical Maps.” Identifying the places where our ancestors used to live can be a critical step in finding sources of genealogical information but locating those places can be quite a challenging task, particularly in Eastern Europe. Ed is a mathematician and computer scientist by education, researcher and technology consultant by profession, and amateur cartographer and genealogist by coincidence. He worked as editor, translator and map consultant during the production of the 2015 documentary film, “Raise the Roof.”
- May 1, 2022 at 2:00 PM – Todd Knowles, “Making the Most of FamilySearch for Jewish Research.” This presentation will focus on new features at FamilySearch, and techniques to use for Jewish genealogical research. Todd Knowles is an Accredited Genealogist who specializes in English and Jewish research. His quest to find more about his G-G-Grandfather, a Polish Jew, has led to the creation of the Knowles Collection, six databases that contain the records of the Jewish people. It currently (as of Jan 2020) contains the records of over 1.4 million people.

Marking a Tragedy: Historical Plaque will Memorialize 1875 Lynching

Greenfield - Cheryl Armstrong was always interested in her family's history; she knew she came from a long line of free African-Americans who helped form a community in central Indiana, and that many in her family were successful professionals. What she didn't know was that her family tree included William Keemer, a Black man who was lynched in Hancock County in 1875 by a mob while a crowd watched. When she found out, it changed how she viewed the Keemer family legacy of success.

RGHS is slowly getting projects ramping up for spring. As with all communities, we are slowed with Covid19 but it has not deterred our project volunteers, just slowed the pace for a bit. A project focus that covers the entire county is having a small American flag mark the grave of every Veteran in county cemeteries. We have a database that has volunteers working on adding to it daily. In due time, we hope to have graves of those without military stones/plaques also marked. Managing RGHS for the past four years, there has not been a collection of lists of men and women who have served in general and notebooks were not updated after the WWII era. It has been a project to help us also enlighten attention needed on properly cleaning stones as well as maintenance needed at defunct cemeteries.

The RGHS facilities primary project focus is storage and accessibility of bound newspapers and the microfilm collection. Grant funding in 2021 is allowing great progress to occur in 2022. We also have community businesses assisting us to help the project budget and keep as much of the funds as possible supporting our local community small businesses.

The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution Library in Louisville, Kentucky, has digitized the George Rogers Clark Papers. This collection contains General Clark's military papers from 1778 to 1834, and thus is of great interest to Indiana historical and genealogical researchers, especially those in the Southeastern Indiana counties near Clarksville, where General Clark settled. The papers provide information about many members of the Illinois regiment and the persons with whom they interacted. An index was included in the digitized documents. You may view the papers by scrolling to the bottom of this page in the Sons of the American library catalog and clicking on the appropriate links:

>> Harrison County submitted by Lynne Keasling, Harrison Co. ICG:

A new chapter of Daughters of the Union 1861-1865 is in the organizing stage here in Corydon. We did have the Battle of Corydon in July of 1863 when John Hunt Morgan and his men came across the Ohio River and met the local militia at the area now called the Battle Park. This was the only Civil War battle fought in Indiana. I am accepting contacts from anyone who may wish to join that chapter or who may have had someone who was involved in that or in the Civil War in Indiana with ties to Harrison County.

>> Sullivan County submitted by Donna Adams, Sullivan Co. ICG:

The Sullivan County Public Library Genealogy/Local History Dept. will do research in response to personal and written inquiries. Only a limited amount of time may be devoted to each request. Letter, email & phone requests will be answered as soon as time allows depending on other staff demands and the number of inquiries received.

Staff will do research in indexed, printed sources and will only search materials dealing with Sullivan and surrounding counties. If a request includes sources beyond this geographic area, staff may recommend other libraries to contact.

Requests should be in the form of one or two briefly stated questions and should include specific names and dates to search, or a range of dates within a ten-year period (example 1850 - 1860) Your full name & mailing address must be included with your query.

The Genealogy/Local History Dept. charges $3.00 plus postage per query. This includes up to 12 copies of material. After the 12 copies the charges are per page .15 for microfilm and .10 for Xerox copies. Checks & or money orders should be made out to Sullivan County Public Library/Genealogy/Local History Department. For further assistance please contact:

Call for IGS Journal, Newsletter, and Social Media Submissions

IGS has filled the positions of Social Media Editor and Indiana Genealogist Editor. We invite your contributions to all our publication outlets.

The Indiana Genealogist is a quarterly online journal that publishes abstracts or transcriptions of genealogical records, articles on Indiana-related resources, and historical studies of people or groups related to Indiana genealogy. The Spring Issue 2022 topic is: Communities, and the deadline to submit to the editor is February 15, 2022. For example, what communities did your family belong to? This can include their town, religious communities, ethnic groups, social organizations, occupational groups, etc. How did this group affect their lives? Were they a tight-knit organization, or a broad-reaching association? If you have an article or something interesting to share, please contact the Editor: Joy Neighbors.

The IGS Newsletter is a bimonthly online publication that includes upcoming events, forthcoming publications, research tips, resources of interest to Indiana genealogists, and queries.
Editor: Jennifer Alford.

The IGS has several social media outlets that publish announcements, time-sensitive information, and other items of genealogical interest. Social Media Director: Jon-Marie Pearson.

Submission guidelines and more information on all these publications can be found on the IGS web site under "Publications."
